The end of an era...

After more than 24 years of compiling Marketing Highlights, it is time for both me and Marketing Highlights to retire, so this 1,304th issue is the final one.

Many changes have occurred since the first issue in March 1974. Beginning as a weekly report printed in the Department of Agricultural Economics and Rural Sociology and mailed to county offices for redistribution, in 1991, in response to funding cuts, it became a bi-weekly newsletter. Since May 1999--after even more funding cuts--Marketing Highlights has been electronically distributed from the Department of Applied Economics and Statistics (formed in 2003 by combining the Departments of Agricultural and Applied Economics and Experimental Statistics (more funding cuts!)).

Another important change is that the data reported in Marketing Highlights have become more readily available via the Internet. What used to take a half dozen telephone calls is now accomplished by a few clicks of the mouse.

Here are my sources.
